An exciting new workshop for children and young people!

Plu2o is a new workshop for young people ages 12-18 years designed to integrate those who present with issues including offending behaviour, school attendance, risky behaviours and uncooperativeness using trauma informed methods.

The 5-week workshop aims to be inclusive of children and young people who are neuro diverse including ADHD by offering a suitable working environment and learning methods from fully trained leaders which are designed to assist neuro diversity in a safe and productive way.

The 5 sessions cover:

Boundaries: Establishing healthy relationships and building resilience.

Healthy Relationships: What is ok and not ok in relationships/friendships.

Consequences: Making positive choices, beneficial engagement.

Responses: Responding to life situations and likely outcomes.

Independence: Wellbeing, developing self-awareness, encouraging sense of worth and belonging. Essential skills for building social relationships.

The workshop content has been researched and developed to provide valuable activities for young people who are due to leave care. These activities are designed to assist care leavers to build positive and healthy relationship networks with trusted adults.

Each referral is discussed with the referrer so that content can be adapted to suit individual needs, e.g scenarios and activities can be adapted to suit a young person's current situation and highlighted needs.

Attendees will have their own journal to record personal experiences, earn rewards and prizes as an incentive with a celebration award ceremony at the end of the 5 weeks.
